Leveraging our expertise to drive impact

Our assumption of the management of AGHF allows us to leverage the healthcare investing experience of TPG's global team and the impact investing expertise of Rise to help Evercare achieve its mission of providing access to healthcare in communities that desperately need it.

TPG Growth and Rise are focused on driving value across the Evercare portfolio and have made strong progress across many initiatives. We have brought on new members across the leadership team, including a new CEO (Massimiliano Colella), CFO (Vaughn Firman), and CTO (Sumit Puri).

Massimiliano (Max) Colella, appointed as the new Evercare CEO, has 20+ years of strategic leadership across healthcare devices and consumables and has a track record of leadership across Evercare's core markets at organizations including Johnson & Johnson and Smith & Nephew. Vaughn Firman, appointed as the new Evercare CFO, brings over 15 years of healthcare experience across Africa with expertise from time spent at a top-three Sub-Saharan Africa hospital group and Netcare. Sumit Puri, appointed as CTO, has over 15 years of IT leadership across healthcare and financial services and has previously managed IT agendas at organizations including Max Healthcare, Prudential, GE, and PwC.

We have also appointed Ritu Kumar as Evercare's ESG Officer to accelerate the platform's ESG agenda further. Ritu has over 20 years of experience in ESG, sustainable development, investment, and value creation, and is a member of the TPG's ESG team.

Each member brings to Evercare years of healthcare expertise and leadership and will work to continue to scale our global reach.

In March 2020, we closed our inaugural investment since taking over Evercare: an investment in Apollo Hospitals, the only JCI accredited hospital in the country, which will increase Evercare's capacity by 725 hospital beds and expand its reach into Bangladesh.

Moses Ndegwa, married with three children. Moses' son, Maina, was hit by a train at 9 years old in Nairobi. Fortunately, well-wishers immediately rushed him to Metropolitan Hospital where he was admitted in ICU and has now fully recovered.
